INSURED CROP
BILL REVIVED
FOR CONGRESSSENATE AND HOUSE
GET TO WORK
NEXT WEEK

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington, Nov. 15. (AP)—Legislation for improvement of rivers and harbors and flood control and to revive crop insurance got top place today on congress schedule.

Leaders announced after a conference with President Roosevelt that the senate would tackle the rivers-harbors-flood control bill on Monday. The house will get down to work Tuesday on the crop insurance measure.

Otherwise the program tentatively mapped for the short session ending next January when the newly-elected congress comes into office includes renewal of the second war powers act. Speaker Rayburn said there might be "one or two other little things" but he expected "nothing controversial."

Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) wants to add the St. Lawrence seaway to the rivers and harbors bill but there is controversy in congress as to whether the seaway can be approved by legislation or would require a treaty necessitating ratification by two-thirds of the senate. A commerce sub-committee headed by Senator Overton (D-La.) decided to hold hearings on that question.

Other Washington developments: War Food Administrator Marvin Jones set farm production goals for 1945 at about the same record levels as this year. Saying there can be no assurance that the war in Europe will not last until next summer or next fall, Jones declared "we cannot risk the possibility of a shortage."

The War Labor board won agreement from officers of the Wright Aircraft Supervision association to call off a strike at five New Jersey plants producing B-29 Super Fortress engines. Chairman William H. Davis of the WLB told them every power of the government would be invoked to halt the strike if it were not called off voluntarily.

Henry J. Kaiser, the west coast industrialist, took to the White House a plea for government action to slow a movement of workers from war jobs. He said he emphasized to President Roosevelt the "absolute need" for an appeal to workers to stay on their jobs so "our fighting men may not be let down."

Members of the senate foreign relations committee gave a cool reception to a revived proposal that the constitution be amended to provide for ratification of treaties by a majority of the house and senate, rather than by two-thirds of the senate alone. For one thing, some members said, it would require perhaps two years to put through a constitutional amendment which must be approved by three-fourths of the states. Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) of the house foreign affairs committee proposed the house-senate ratification.

The tire, with a button-bar tread, is designed for road and off-road service with maximum traction on slippery, rutted and muddy roads.

Nazis Intend To Fight On After Defeat

BY RICHARD KASISCHKE

London, Nov. 15. (AP)—A significant new step in the Nazification of the backs-to-the-wall German army—with the apparent intent of making it a "never-surrender" force to fight on as guerrillas after defeat—was announced today by Berlin.

A new decree ordered all German officers and noncoms who are members of the Nazi party to "educate their men in the Nazi philosophy" both on duty and off "in order to form a closer link-up between the armed force and the party." Previously members of the German army were required to leave the party during their period of armed service.

The new decree did not bear the signature of Heinrich Himmler. But an authority on Germany—a German—was quoted tonight by the British Press association as expressing conviction that the man behind this move was Himmler, home front commander-in-chief and the man rumored in some quarters to have superseded the mysteriously secluded and silent Adolf Hitler as number one in the Reich.

Close students of Germany here interpreted today's decree as the most important in a Nazi campaign begun some months ago to adapt the German army to the Nazi pattern of fanatic resistance would continue, as Hitler once put it, "past twelve o'clock" in the hills and underground. Such resistance would be designed, as Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels said at the founding of the Volksturm people's army, to "make every occupation of Germany a veritable hell."

According to a western front report from Associated Press Correspondent Franklin Banker, an order has been issued to the German army directing all soldiers to shoot anyone—officer or even close friend—who tries to surrender. The Russians, reporting capture of similar orders on the Eastern front, said those were "Himmler."

The whole build-up, said the man expert quoted by the Press association, was designed to create a fanatical political army which, unlike the old non-political Wehrmacht, would not give in when militarily defeated.

The Fuehrer himself still remained personally invisible and inaudible as the great "Where's Hitler?" mystery spun along in this and other European capitals.

GRAVEST CRISIS
FACING CHINESESituation Worst In Her
7 Years Of War, But
Nation Won't Quit

Chungking, Nov. 15. (AP)—The Japanese offensive in South China, now threatening to include invasion of the hinterland province of Kweichow, confronted the Chinese tonight with the gravest military crisis in more than seven years of war.

Cabinet spokesman P. H. Chang admitted the seriousness of Chinese reverses, but declared "We shall fight on as determinedly as ever."

The Chinese high command said the Japanese, continuing their advance with reinforcements, now were only six miles from Ishan, station on the Kwangsi-Kweichow provincial railway 43 miles west of Liuchow.

This left the Japanese some 80 miles from the border of Kweichow province, which lies east of Yunnan and south of Szechwan, the provinces in which Kunning and Chungking itself are situated.

Capitol Dome Lit
Up As Michigan's
Bond Debt Is Paid

Lansing, Nov. 15. (AP)—Rid of her bonded indebtedness for the first time since 1917, Michigan broke its Capitol building blackout tonight and turned on the state house dome lights in celebration.

The lighting marked the final payment of $243,000 of $500,000 highway improvement bonds issued between 1921 and 1925 to "take Michigan out of the mud." In the interim, the bonds have paid $94,805,000 in principal and interest.

The Capitol lights were turned off at the request of Civilian Defense officials after Pearl Harbor. State officials planned to re-light the dome when Germany surrendered but got tired of waiting.

The dome will be lighted regularly now.

HUNTER IS HIT

First Bucks Are Brought Back

(By The Associated Press)

The gunfire of a Michigan army of deer hunters numbering 225,000 sounded through the state's woodlands today, but reports of the kill on the season's opening day were slow.

Weather conditions were unfavorable, with rain, fog and temperatures around 45 degrees in upper and lower peninsula, but colder weather and snow was predicted for tomorrow.

One of the first injuries of the season occurred near Cedarville in Mackinac county where Aloysius Poirard, 30, of Detroit, was struck in the shoulder by a rifle bullet soon after he entered the woods. At a Sault Ste. Marie hospital his condition was reported not serious.

First buck to be brought back to Grand Rapids was one shot by Laverne Gregware, 28, who said he didn't decide to go hunting until he chanced to wake up about 3 a. m. today. "It was just a hunch," he explained. He bagged the deer after only 45 minutes in the woods, Gregware said.

State police and conservation officers were seeking Orville Fields, of Maple Ridge, lost south of Foster City Tuesday, and two unidentified 10-year old girls, reported missing near Eckerman. Glenn Brown of Pontiac, reported missing Tuesday southwest of Oscoda, was found Tuesday night.

'Countess' To Serve
4 Years In Prison
In Nazi Spy Case

Detroit, Nov. 15. (AP)—U. S. District Judge Edward J. Moineau today sentenced Mrs. Marianna Van Moltke, wife of a former Wayne University professor who said her descent from Italian nobility entitled her to the title of countess.

The indictment charged Mrs. Von Moltke with furnishing a Nazi spy ring with foreign and domestic mailing addresses. She pleaded guilty to a part in the conspiracy, which had previously sent seven other Detroiters to prison. The court refused to permit her to change her plea today.

The woman came to the United States from Germany with her husband in 1926. The husband, Heinrich, was dismissed from Wayne University faculty following her arrest in August, 1943. Two sons are in Germany, and a third lives in Detroit.

Beer Bottle Target
On Head Fatal For New York Hunter

Racquette Lake, N. Y., Nov. 15. (AP)—Leonard Palmeter, of Utica, N. Y., was arraigned tonight on a charge of first degree manslaughter in the death of a fellow deer-hunter who state police said was wounded fatally when Palmeter attempted to shoot a beer bottle off his head.

Coroner E. J. Van Arman issued a verdict that Fred Santiam, 47, Gouverneur, N. Y., who died last night of a head wound, met "death by criminal means."

State police reported the hunters had stopped yesterday for "target practice" 12 miles south of Tupper Lake, N. Y., when the incident occurred.

Man Held As Fiend
Killer Of Women In Los Angeles Hotels

Los Angeles, Nov. 15. (AP)—Horribly mutilated, the nude bodies of two women were found in separate downtown hotels today and tonight police said they had obtained a confession from Otto Steve Wilson, 31, whom they arrested while he was sipping wine in a nearby bar.

Det. Lt. L. J. Hurst said Wilson at first denied any connection with the killings but later broke down and admitted he had ripped both women to death.

Patrolman H. E. Donlan recognized Wilson from a description furnished by hotel employees. Without a word of warning he walked behind Wilson and slipped handcuffs on him.

Wilson was booked at central jail on suspicion of murder but was held incommunicado.

The first victim found was Virgie Lee Griffin, 25. Sprawled on a bed, she had been slashed from neck to abdomen. Her right leg had been severed at the knee and hip, the right shoulder arched, and flesh had been hacked away from other parts of the body.

"This is the most fiendish crime in my 19 years of experience here," said Police Detective Lieutenant Harry Hansen. It is worse than the Winnie Ruth Judd Case.

A knife with a nine-inch blade, and several razor blades had been used, Hanson said.

Shortly afterward the nude body of Lillian Johnson, about 38, also was found stretched out on a bed in another hotel, a few blocks away.

She had been slashed from the breasts to the pelvic region. Hotel employees said she had registered a few hours earlier with a man.

Hansen said Miss Johnson frequently had been seen in bars near the hotel. When found, she wore only her shoes and stockings. Detective Lt. Harry Hansen said Wilson, who had been arrested before on charges of attempted rape, had been identified by fingerprints as the slayer of both women.

The detective also quoted employees at the hotels as identifying Wilson as the man who had registered with the women.

PEACE SESSIONS
WILL BAR SPAINPro-Axis Neutrals Get
Stern Treatment
From Allies

BY ALEX H. SINGLETON
London, Nov. 15. (AP)—Development of a stern United Nations policy toward neutrals who were indifferent to the Allied cause emerged today with the disclosure that Spain—long pro-Axis—would be barred from the peace table.

It seemed clear, however, that the policy would affect Argentina and Eire as well as Spain. It left at least four other countries—Sweden, Switzerland, Portugal and Turkey—up in the air.

Turkey went part of the way toward restoring herself in Allied good graces by belatedly breaking diplomatic and economic relations with Germany—but only after Prime Minister Churchill declared on May 24 that the Turks could have obtained a stronger voice by a more active role.

Portugal, Britain's oldest ally, and Sweden, geographically vulnerable to German assault—like Turkey—traded with the Axis until the tide of war turned to Allied favor.

Switzerland—long aloof from Europe's wars—appeared in a somewhat better position for clearing a peace table seat, partly because of her established position of neutrality, partly because of her service as an international go-between.

The attitude of Britain was reflected today in the London press over the failure of Eire to give a clear-cut reply on the question of whether she would provide sanctuary for war criminals.

Black Market Gas
Theft Ring Broken
New York, Nov. 15. (AP)—The largest gasoline black market in the east—so termed by OPA officials—was broken here today, police said, with the arrest of 28 men, leaders of a ring which Deputy Chief Inspector William T. Reynolds estimated made $1,000,000 from the sale of stolen gasoline ration coupons.

Twenty-six of the men, all service station proprietors, were charged tonight with possession of stolen gasoline ration stamps. Two other men were charged with vagrancy.

Several of those charged were said by the authorities to be former members of an "international automobile theft gang" that sold stolen cars throughout the world.

Albert T. Collums, chief of the OPA gasoline enforcement division, said the raids had solved the theft of large quantities of coupons in New York, Detroit, Mich., Fairfield, Conn., and Trenton, N. J.

LAST STRONGHOLD ON LEYTE IS SQUEEZED

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Thursday Nov. 16. (AP)—Units of the American 24th Division have "practically" severed the Ormoc road, by a double envelopment movement which carried them to the rear of enemy positions, headquarters reported today.

The envelopment move cut off Japanese forces around Ormoc, a regiment's strength, near Limon, American-held village approximately four miles south of Carigara Bay.

Elements of the 1st Cavalry Division, driving west and southwest from Jaro, seized three strategic hills east of the road after overcoming numerous Japanese defensive positions.

Shore Targets Blasted
The 7th Division, forming the third arm of the squeeze encircling Japanese forces around Ormoc, "bloodily" repulsed an enemy counterattack 10 miles south of Ormoc on the coast road. The counterattack was aimed at Balogo.

American fighter planes again blasted Japanese barges and shore targets at Ormoc, last Nipponese stronghold on Leyte island.

Single enemy planes staged "several ineffective raids" on American ground installations. Five of the attackers were shot down. The dismounted cavalrymen, in overrunning ridge positions, seized Mt. Mamban, 1163-foot height, and hills known as numbers 4047 and 4018.

The liberation front was moving forward in all sectors, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Wednesday communique disclosed. From the north, east and south the Yanks converged on Ormoc, where the enemy probably will make his final stand, with the sea at his back.

Flank Threatened
A double flanking operation to the north menaced the Japanese hold on bloody ridges dominating the retreat road to Ormoc. Units of the 24th Infantry Division stole southwestward through the mountains in a wheeling move that threatened the western flank of the enemy's positions along the Ormoc road south of Limon, scene of bitter fighting.

Meanwhile dismounted troopers of the First Cavalry Division pressed in from mountain positions on the Japanese eastern flank. They posed a threat to the vital communications line about three airline miles south of Limon.

In the central sector, doughboys of the 96th division probed forest fastnesses 14 miles eastward of Ormoc. They were in the vicinity of Alto Peak, a 1333-foot height of Leyte's rugged backbone. From Alto Peak the terrain slopes westward toward the coast.

Tokyo's Loses 14 Ships
Developing the southern arm of the triple threat of Ormoc, 7th Infantry Division units advanced to Damuluan, on the coast 14 miles below Ormoc. They broke up a Nipponese attempt to land reinforcements at Damuluan from a handful of barges.

Ineffective harassing raids by the enemy air force contrasted with devastating strikes by American land and carrier based planes against Japanese airdromes, shipping and defense installations throughout the Philippines.

(Aim. Chester W. Nimitz announced at Pearl Harbor late Tuesday that Pacific fleet carrier aircraft swept over the Manila area Sunday in a destructive blow to the enemy's shipping, installations and air power. Fourteen Japanese vessels, including three warships, were sunk or damaged, a floating drydock hit by torpedoes and 28 or 30 planes destroyed. One American ship was damaged.)

Lansing, Nov. 15. (AP)—The state conservation department said today it had received reports from commercial fishermen at Manistique and St. Ignace that they have made catches of smelt large enough to indicate the silvery horde may make a comeback in the Great Lakes.

They said substantial quantities of smelt five to 11 inches long were taken in Lakes Huron and Michigan. A mysterious disease almost wiped out the fish in 1942 and 1943.

FORTRESS CITY
FALLS TO REDSPace Of Assault Aimed At Budapest Speeded
Up By Soviet Army

BY W. W. HERCHER

London, Thursday, Nov. 16. (AP)—The Red army, increasing the pace of its assaults aimed toward Budapest, seized the fortress city of Jaszbereny and more than 50 other Hungarian communities yesterday as the Germans fell back in hard-fighting retreats along a 100-mile front stretching from southeast of the capital to the area of Miskolc.

Jaszbereny, a strategic railway center 35 miles east of Budapest, fell to a combination by-passing maneuver and direct frontal assault, Moscow announced this morning.

The Russians began to outflank the city on the northeast, and then, when the Germans extended themselves to meet this threat, the attackers appeared straight into the town and took it in fierce street fighting.

Besides this biggest prize of the day, the Russians recorded other gains along the line from the railway town of Mende, only 12 miles southeast of Budapest, up to Korom and a group of other communities nesting 10 miles below the north Hungarian center of Miskolc.

Altogether 570 German and Hungarian prisoners were taken during the day, Moscow reported.

NAZIS SLACKEN
FIGHT IN ITALYEighth Army Advances
West Of Forli, Gains
Foothold On Road

BY LYNN HEINZERLING
Rome, Nov. 15. (AP)—The British Eighth Army, advancing from small bridgeheads established across the Montone river west of Forli, drove forward to a general line two miles north of a loop of the river and made good progress elsewhere along the eastern sector of the Italian front, the Allied command announced today.

After crossing the Montone Eighth Army units seized a foothold on broad Highway Nine, leading to Bologna, at a point two miles northwest of Forli, capturing Monte Poggiolo and the village of Villagrasa south of the road.

Resistance generally seemed to slacken in the hills below Highway Nine. Allied forces were in contact with the Germans about 1,000 yards northwest of San Varano, which is one of the southern outskirts of Forli. An advance of 2,000 yards was made in this area. An enemy rear-guard was liquidated and 20 prisoners were captured.

In the hills west of Castrocaro, southwest of Forli, Polish troops occupied Monte Ceretto and captured more high ground still farther west.

ALLIES MAKE
ENTIRE FRONTBRITISH GAIN FIVE MILES; FRENCH GO INTO ACTION

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, Nov. 15. (AP)—American doughboys by-passed bloody Fort Driant today and boiled in close to the suburbs of Metz from three sides, clamping the great fortress city in death grip, while in the north British troops drove five miles through the boglands of eastern Holland to within 37 miles of the key German industrial center of Duisburg.

(A dispatch direct from the field said the French first army also had launched an attack, advancing four to five miles on a 25-mile front covering both banks of the Dubs river on the approaches to the Belfort gap on the easternmost part of the front.

Enemy Kept on Jump

The American Seventh army, with which the French First is teamed as the Sixth army group, already was in action in the Vosges mountains, so that the Allies now are on the offensive on a large-scale front from Holland to Switzerland, with the exception of the American First army sector which has been comparatively quiet since the fall of Aachen.)

Both Fort Driant and Fort Jean d'Arc—two of the nine major bastions ringing Metz—were neutralized by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's 95th division, which captured two smaller forts, Hubert and Jussy, as it smashed toward the outskirts of the city from the west. Fort Illange, 14 miles north of Metz and just south of Thionville, also was stormed and its Nazi garrison killed or captured.

Ridges Cleared
Driant's guns, which barked spasmodically yesterday when the Yanks began pushing past it on the north, were silent today, suggesting that the Germans had abandoned the mighty mile-and-a-half-long structure on the west bank of the Moselle river as they previously had evacuated Forts L'Yser and L'Aisne after only small arms resistance.

Due south of Metz the American Fifth division inched forward to within little more than a mile of the city while beating off some of the most determined counterattacks the Nazis have raised since Patton's forces opened their winter assault eight days ago.

Peltre, two and a half miles southeast of Metz, was cleared of the enemy, and German counterattacks were beaten off along nearby Pouilly ridge, from which American guns command the enemy's main escape route from Metz eastward to the Saar frontier.

The Germans, employing their first substantial force on armor since the American attack began, also struck back viciously against Patton's 80th infantry division south of Remilly forest, southeast of Metz, but the Yanks stopped them cold and pushed within four miles of the city of Falkenberg (Faulquemont), which is only 10 miles from the German border.

Snow In Foothills
At the extreme right wing of General Patton's offensive three regiments of the 26th U. S. infantry rooted the last Germans from the bridge and Koecking forest and captured Marshal, five miles southwest of Dieuze. The 55th division stormed into Morhange, 23 miles southeast of Metz.

To the south of Patton's big push, the American Seventh army jabbed deeper into the snow-

YULE LIGHTING IS PROHIBITED

Outdoor Decorations Are Banned To Conserve On Electricity

Street and other outdoor decorative lighting displays related to the celebration of Christmas again are prohibited this year for the same reasons that made the order necessary for the past two years, it is announced by Edward Falck, director of the Office of War Utilities.

In a letter to Hugo Lilliquist, superintendent of the Escanaba electric department, Falck advised that the installation of temporary extensions to serve for such outdoor Christmas lighting displays is prohibited, Escanaba will have its Ludington street decorated with festooning, minus lights, from Third street to Stephenson avenue, and on Stephenson to Third avenue north.

The Office of War Utilities has asked city officials, civic clubs, chambers of commerce, merchants and citizens generally to dispense with outdoor decorative lighting again this Christmas, as was done in 1942 and 1943.

Lighting consumes a large amount of fuel in the production of electricity, and the fuel situation in most sections of the country is critical and strict conservation is essential.

Indoor lighting, whether in homes or in stores, is permissible. Elimination of outdoor Christmas lighting, it is estimated by the Office of War Utilities, will save enough fuel to meet the lighting and power requirements of a city of 50,000 for a year. For this reason outdoor lighting, such as festooned store fronts and decorated streets, will be dispensed with as long as fuels are scarce.

Hermansville

Hermansville Is Full of Hunters

Hermansville, Michigan—The deer hunting season is on hand, which means that Hermansville will "boom" for the next two weeks. The first contingent of the deer hunters army that annually invades the upper peninsula started to arrive in numbers, some coming in early Saturday night and Sunday morning. Late Sunday evening found Hermansville deer hunters, a haven for Lower Michigan woodsmen, full of red shirts and jackets. Menominee county attracts hundreds of hunters with Hermansville center of its deer country of Vega, six miles northwest of the village again appearing to be flooded with hunters as the season on hand.

The most popular hunters in town are members of the "Porky Hill Camp" which is located in Vega. Its ten members are here again for the fourth season and these individuals and business-men are again appearing to have a grand time. These hunters arrived late Saturday and early Sunday morning and all appeared ready for the opening of the season. Red shirts and jackets are evident as these men have discarded their business worries and are all set to make Hermansville "Boom" for the next two weeks. These men include Harold F. Arthur of Wayne, Michigan; Clinton and Milton Schwartz of Ecorse Michigan; Eddie Chase of Detroit, Joe Swanson, and "Big Jim" a popular night club owner from Wayne, Michigan. Other members of this camp are expected into town shortly. These men who got away early, are checking their camp, getting their supplies ready and cutting their wood. They retire early in the evening, resort to a little poker game, tell their stories and discuss events of importance, to complete their day of activity.

Watching the arriving of hunters is intensely interesting, some arriving in big cars, others heading straight for the taverns others hitting for their camps and getting them in shape.

Hunting around the village is centered chiefly around Vega, which is the favorite spot for the hunters who regard it as one of the best hunting spots in the state. Hunting is also good in Camp 3, 6 and 28.

Joseph St. Juliana has taken his pack of hunters to his camp on the Oral Road, near Spaulding. Hunting with St. Juliana are Frank Devine and Felix Lardenot of Norway along with club members from Hermansville.

Simon, Dave and Conrad Swanson along with George Nieman are planning to spend their first few days of the hunting season at the Swanson camp near Vega. Henry Peterson of Marquette is also expected to join the gang at Swanson's camp.

The kill is expected to be heavy in this vicinity, with the encouraging reports that one of the best hunting seasons is on hand.

The State Conservation Department this year has set up strict regulations on hunters camps, and insist that hunters clean up their camps. Violations of these regulations provide a fine of $100 and jail sentences up to three months or both for willful disregard of camp regulations.

Echo Of Buck Guns Heard In Munising

The Deer Wednesday, it having rained all night and all day, but rain doesn't hamper the spirit of a deer hunter. He will go out when the dogs stay in and take a chance on getting his buck. The town was deserted, but there was a faint echoing of firing which could be heard in town.

There seems to be an increase in the number of hunters this year all over the Upper Peninsula and especially so around the Alger County area. All resort, hotel and rooming hotel accommodations in town have been taken and where the remaining hunters plan on staying is going to be a mystery. To give an idea of the number of hunters here one tavern owner reported that he sold ten 16-gallon kegs of beer between opening time Tuesday morning and eleven o'clock a. m. which is one for Mr. Ripley.

At noon on the opening day there were only two bucks reported killed by Lower Michigan hunters who were sporting them around town. There were no deer reported killed by local hunters as yet, and no violations reported.

Sgt. Robert Moreau Plays In Orchestra On Aleutian Islands

Sgt. Robert Moreau, of the United States Army, son of Mrs. Albert Moreau, 311 South Ninth street, who is stationed at Dutch Harbor, is a member of the musical group, the "Aleutian Five," which has been gaining wide recognition, and which is the subject of an article in the November issue of "Our Navy," official Naval service publication.

The story, written by Crosby Naylor, which appears with a picture of the "Aleutian Five" posed with Olivia DeHavilland, says in part:

"For months, American boys, stationed in Dutch Harbor, famed Aleutian advance base, had nothing to listen to except radio Tokyo, which lied continuously and monotonously. They were starving for something American. "One night as the beat up 16 mm motion picture show came to an end, five men moved into the center of the mess hall deck with musical instruments. They were introduced as the "Aleutian Five." Their leader was Dick Channon, graduate from Rice Institute, once teamed with Cy Howard. Bill Spreter, of Chicago, who once played with Kay Kyser, was bass drummer. Teamed at one time with the NBC favorite, Paul Martin, Rex and Von Gallion were the third and fourth members. The fifth member was a young man with a personality voice, Bob Moreau, of Escanaba, Mich., who filled in on the drums and the piano when needed and who sang his way into those tough fighting men's hearts."

The group which recently appeared on a Kay Kyser program, is now well known.

The article continues:

"From hospitals, listening posts, visiting ships, come notes of thanks to the Commanding Officer. Such famous movie stars as Martha O'Driscoll, Olivia DeHavilland, Marjorie Reynolds and Errol Flynn weren't too busy to say, "Thanks for the cooperation of the Aleutian Five," and from down the hill came a note from Dutch Harbor's beloved Commanding Officer, simply written, but full of kindness and hospitality, "The Aleutian Five has lifted the morale of my men out of the mud."

COMBAT DEATH RATE REDUCED

Wound Fatalities Only Half As Great As In World War I

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Paris, Nov. 15 (AP)—The rate of death from combat wounds in this war has been reduced to little more than half what it was in World War I. Maj. Gen. Albert W. Kenner, chief staff medical officer, said today.

He said that was accomplished through 55 to 60 percent of the injuries in this war were due to high explosive artillery and mortar fire. In the first World War 70 percent of the casualties were caused by small arms fire.

The mortality rate from battle wounds is running under four percent of the total hurt. In the last war it was from seven to eight percent. Even among cases which would have been considered hopeless in the last war, many now are being saved through use of adequate equipment, and because of specialized surgery, the speed of the jeep and the C-47 transport plane in moving the wounded back and the benefits of sulfa drugs and penicillin.

In the last war, 60 percent of the casualties developed infection. In this war the rate is less than ten percent.

Kenner said the venereal disease rate has about doubled since the troops moved into France, but the increase was lower than had been anticipated.

Lt. Gen. Field dispatches said eight inches of fresh snow blanketed the Vosges foothills tonight. The entire western front was wrapped in real winter weather, and no planes left British bases today.

Briefly Told

Carrier Avoids Storm—The skipper of the steamer Cornwall, loaded with iron ore at Escanaba, decided not to tackle the storm on Lake Michigan last night, and the carrier anchored just off Sand Point in the local harbor to wait for the blow to subside. An inter-lake steamer came in with a cargo of coal Wednesday, but will be in port all day today, unloading at the Reiss docks.

Recipe for a V-Mail Letter

Read the other day about a G.I. overseas who received an installment notice from the income tax collector. He wrote back: "Over here, even a letter from you is news from home."

A gag, of course—but with an overtone of truth about it. More than anything else, the men like getting letters from home. More than anything else, our V-Mail letters can help to keep up their morale.

What to write about? That's the easiest thing of all. For it's the little things they dream of

BUSINESS GAINS DURING OCTOBER

Upper Peninsula Bank Debits Increase By 11 Per Cent

During the month of October, the volume of bank debits in Escanaba reached a point that was 11 per cent above the level attained in October 1943, while figures for the ten months of this period showed a two per cent increase, when compared with the same period of 1943.

These bank debit figures represent the dollar volume of checks drawn by depositors against their bank accounts to pay for goods, services, debts, etc. For a locality, bank debits are considered a good indicator of the volume of business transacted, for they reflect the amount spent by farmers, business, and government in payrolls and for materials as well as the amount spent by consumers in the general retail trade channels.

Throughout the Upper Peninsula of Michigan, bank debits for the month of October were one per cent above those shown for October 1943, while the total for this period indicates an increase of seven per cent.

Bank debits for the entire Ninth Federal Reserve district for the month of October were three per cent above the same 1943 period, while figures for this period are eight per cent greater than the identical 1943 period for ten months.

The October figures follow:

BUREAU OUT OF DEBT

Marquette—George E. Bishop, secretary-manager, announced Saturday that the U. P. Development bureau is solvent, with all debts paid and $600 in the bank. Expenditures of the bureau during the past year were $55,000 including Lure Book printing, office maintenance, miscellaneous tourist activities and a $12,000 investment in purebred bulls most of which has been paid back.

Managers of the 1945 Lure Book plan to sell $20,000 worth of advertising space and already approximately $4,000 has been pledged, almost twice as much as the amount sold at this time last year.

Bishop leaves this week for California, where he will spend six weeks. In his absence his son, Claude, formerly associated with a tourist agency on the west coast will conduct the bureau. Both men conferred in Iron River with H. W. Mertins, Sr., new bureau president, last week.

HUNTERS SIGHT GUNS—A steady stream of deer hunters visited the Marble Arms and Manufacturing company plant at Gladstone before the opening of the season. On Tuesday as many as 25 hunters waited to have their guns sighted. In this picture William L. Marble, son of the founder of the Marble Arms plant, throws up his favorite deer rifle to explain the principle and advantages of a rear peep sight to a group of lower Michigan hunters.

Hot Lunch Program Starts Plans are in readiness for the opening of the Hot Lunch program at the Kipling school Monday. Mrs. Joseph LeMere of Brampton will be employed as cook again this year.

The cost per child for each month will be $1.00. For several years the school has had a Hot lunch program. It is being sponsored by the PTA of the community.

During the summer months a great deal of renovating has been done in the school dining room. The walls and pantry have been painted by the school janitor, Mr. Rivers. Within the past month another stove has been purchased and new linoleum placed on the tables.

Funds for this repair work have been raised by parties sponsored by the PTA last year.

The next regular PTA meeting will be held the second Monday in December.

Ceiling Placed On Anti-Freeze

Ceiling prices on anti-freeze mixtures never have been increased and numerous complaints of violations are being investigated, the Upper Peninsula District Office of Price Administration announced today.

Shortages of the permanent types of anti-freeze have driven motorists to the use of the semi-permanent and non-permanent solutions and have brought a tendency to boost prices of those types, OPA stated.

Dealers may charge only $1.40 a gallon or 35 cents a quart for the semi-permanent types and $1.00 a gallon or 25 cents a quart for non-permanent types. The prices apply whether the material is bought in containers or installed in the car.

Ceiling prices for permanent types are $2.65 a gallon or 70c a quart installed or in containers. This type of anti-freeze has been out of production since 1942, but a limited amount of it still is available in some places.

More Housing Needed

THE decision of the City of Manistiquette to take steps designed to meet the acute housing shortage in that community is cheering news and it will be interesting to watch developments on the Manistiquette situation.

The housing situation is acute in many Upper Peninsula communities but nowhere is it as serious as it is at Manistiquette, where there has been very little new home construction in the past 15 years. Manistiquette's entire industrial development program is threatened because of the acute housing shortage there.

A lot of red tape will have to be unraveled before Manistiquette gets the new housing facilities so badly needed there. It is estimated that 40 new homes will be needed in 1945 alone. This will involve not only the necessary government priorities to permit this construction, but also it will require architectural and home construction labor in quantities greater than now exist in the community. Obviously Manistiquette's housing problem is not one of government authorization alone.

One very fortunate aspect of the Manistiquette housing problem is the fact that there is sufficient vacant property where such essential services as water and sewer connections are already existing to permit the housing expansion program without the necessity of creating a new subdivision.

Return to Norway

ALTHOUGH there will be still days of privation ahead for them, the liberty-loving people of Norway must derive much joy and consolation from the fact that a detachment of Norwegian soldiers has landed on the Arctic front to help the Russians in driving the Nazis out.

Commanding the Norwegian military force is Col. Arne Dahl, who headed the famous Alta battalion in the ill-fated 1940 campaign around Narvik, northern ore shipping port in Norway. There are indications now that the Allied force will soon be striking at Narvik to wrest it from the Germans, who are reported to have strongly fortified it.

A city about the size of Escanaba, Narvik was noted for being the mostly northerly port in the world, and for many years was the western outlet of Swedish iron ore for export, brought to the port by rail from the Swedish magnetite iron ore mines. The producing iron mines are located at Kiruna and Gällivare, quite far north in Sweden. Sweden has an ore port of its own, known as Lulea, on the gulf of Bothnia, an arm of the Baltic sea. But its short six-month open season, similar to Lake Superior and Lake Michigan, places Narvik, with its all-year transportation facilities, as the natural outlet of Swedish iron ore.

The people of Norway have bravely endured much suffering under the Nazi occupation. There were a few Quislings among them, of course, but they were a minute portion of the population. Many courageous Norwegians have given their lives rather than collaborate with the Germans. Many have escaped the country and gone to England and Canada to join the armed forces that are now fighting again on their home soil. In Norway, the Nazi supermen have learned that while they were able to conquer a freedom-loving people by a superior force of arms they could not conquer their spirit. It is this spirit that should go a long way toward discouraging military aggression in the future.

A New Frontier

THE late Wendell Willkie once said of the postwar world: "We are not going to return to anything." Those familiar with the aviation industry will say amen to Willkie's remark. It will come out of this war a giant. A few years ago it was an infant.

Aviation growth is most clearly reflected in airline development. In 1935, the airlines carried over 700,000 passengers. In 1941, shortly before the government requisitioned a large number of their planes for military purposes, they carried over 4,000,000 passengers and flew over a billion and a half passenger miles. In 1935, they carried 4,186,000 lbs. of mail; in 1942, 18,700,000 lbs. over more than 45,000 miles of air mail routes. In 1935, they carried less than 4,000,000 lbs. of express; in 1943, 57,500,000 lbs.

Contrary to the notion that the airlines are supported by mail subsidies, the post office last year took in something like $30,000,000 more on the sale of air mail stamps than it paid the airlines for the mail carried—a $50,000,000 revenue to government from this source is estimated for 1944. The cost of carrying the mail has been halved since 1935. Passenger and express rates are steadily falling.

So much for the record. The future of the airlines promises to be even more progressive and exciting. A recent survey showed that insofar as the airlines are concerned, there is clear evidence that postwar growth will continue to be rapid. Findings indicate that three times as many people will use the airways as have done so in the past. There will be a demand for foreign travel as well as domestic transportation. Europe and South America will be so close to us by air that they will open up entirely new travel patterns. The aviation industry is glowing proof that a new frontier is still ahead of us.

May Acquire Airport

THE Delta county airport, atop the Gladstone bluff, may be acquired by the City of Gladstone to provide more adequate facilities for air transportation in the postwar era.

Constructed by the Delta county board of supervisors on land leased from Gladstone owners, the airport is now in sad state of disrepair. Vandals have broken the windows, carried off the plumbing and removable lumber and hardware, and caused other depredations.

The state aeronautical board, however, believes that the neighboring communities should have additional landing fields to accommodate the increased number of planes expected after the war. On certain days, foggy weather hinders landings at the Escanaba airport, while at the same time clear vision would be afforded flyers at the Gladstone airfield, which is at a higher altitude.

Already hard-pressed financially, the Delta county board of supervisors feels it is unable to invest more money in its ill-fated airport. The city of Gladstone quite likely could do a better job of maintenance if it decided to take over its ownership and control. It would be a gesture that would be greatly appreciated by flying enthusiasts, of course.

SALVAGE AT ESCANABA (Iron Mountain News)

The superstructure of one of the docks built by the Army at Escanaba is to be removed, the timbers resawed and the lumber used to expand an ordnance plant at Merrimac, Wis.

The Army called it a day on the Escanaba project, in which $14,000,000 is said to have been invested, because reverses suffered by the Nazis apparently ended the danger they might reach the Sault Ste. Marie locks with an air attack.

There was more to this project than the docks. The idea was, in event the locks were smashed, to step up greatly delivery of ore by rail at Escanaba, even from the Mesaba range, for water transport to the lower lake ports. To make this possible the rail facilities that would feed the Escanaba docks were to be improved and the bridges strengthened or rebuilt.

But this work was never undertaken. For anything that appears to the contrary no consideration was ever given to where the ore cars that were to handle the greatly increased ton mileage were to come from. In the minds of the Army engineers the project was doubtless well integrated. But that has to be taken on trust. All that was done toward its realization was the expenditure of millions on the dock structures at Escanaba.

While the docks were being built at Escanaba a new lock was in process of construction at Sault Ste. Marie. It is a permanent value. It may anticipate the future but it has, nevertheless, a sound value. This cannot be said of the two immense air fields in Chippewa county into which the Army poured great quantities of money with the idea that if the locks were attacked they could be used as bases for the defending airplanes. Their long term value is problematical, but doubtful.

The expenditure on them, as is the case with nearly all the expenditure at Escanaba, must be regarded as one for insurance against dangers there was small chance would materialize and which, as we now know, did not materialize.

Girls in an Eastern college say they may take up pipe smoking. The female of the species will be sicker than the male.

Take My Word For it . . . Frank Colby

Q. Am I correct in believing that the "dog days" are so called because dogs are likely to go mad at that time of year?
A. Sorry, no. The "dog days" are so called because of the rising of the Dog Star (Sirius) in the summer sky from early July to early September.

That dogs "go mad" is pure superstition. Hydrophobia or rabies (RAY-bi-eez) is a communicable disease caused by a filter-passing virus in the animal's saliva. In such countries as Great Britain, where the muzzling of dogs is strictly enforced, and where imported animals are quarantined or refused entry, rabies has been held in check.

Another superstition is that mad dogs dread water. This mistaken belief arises from the fact that the word hydrophobia literally means "water fear." The truth is, a rabid dog craves water, but is unable to drink because of constriction about the throat.

Q. When I was young, a popular expression was, "Yes sirc, Bob." What is the origin?
A. It was simply American slang, and it is still occasionally heard.

From the Baltimore Sun, March 20, 1857 (reporting a case being tried in which a juror was apparently intoxicated): "The judge, addressing the man, said: 'Sir, are you drunk?' The juror, straightening himself up, in a bold, defiant tone replied: 'No sirc, Bob.' 'Well,' said the judge, 'I fine you five dollars for the rec-

World Events Analyzed

BY THOMAS M. JOHNSON
NEA Military Writer

The recent upset in China proves again that this war has developed plenty of good American Generals. For when the able and distinctive Stilwell had to vacate, straightaway arose the likewise able and distinctive Wedemeyer and Sultana, less-known but no less qualified, and both already on the ground.

Albert C. Wedemeyer, one of our youngest Major Generals, is also on the spot—two spots. He must be not only Chief of Staff to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek but commander of all American troops in China. On the first spot he is supposed to be a sort of military advisor and general manager to a commander who by permitting corruption, incompetence and politics has weakened an enterprise already severely handicapped until it is near collapse. Wedemeyer's second spot is that only a near-miracle can provide the means to run the Chinese war effort at all before the impending collapse.

Wedemeyer's problem is two-fold: First there must be a shakeup like an earthquake in Chiang's regime and army; second, there must be a major American landing at a Chinese port whence not only troops and planes but supplies can pour into what the Japs have left of China. And though Chiang may be at the dock to do the official greeting, the reception committee's real wheelhorse will be Wedemeyer.

—FACES D-DAY IN CHINA—

He must not only get along with the sorely beset Chinese dictator but prepare the receiving end of D-Day in Asia, which greater distance certainly, and greater enemy sea-power probably will make more difficult than D-Day in Europe. It will be a test as rugged as any American statesman-general has faced.

Albert Cogdy Wedemeyer's profile suggests Washington's. His high gray pompadour puts a lean body over six feet. He is quiet, yet friendly, frank yet modest and unself-seeking. Like General Marshall, whom he greatly admires, he cooperates with his Allies. His former Chief in India, Lord Mountbatten, likes him. So does Winston Churchill, with whom Wedemeyer lately conferred in London. At the important international conferences he has attended, Wedemeyer, a Nebraska-West Point American, has been honest, but shrewd and tenacious of his country's interests. His son is a cadet at West Point, his father-in-law, Lieut. Gen. Stanley D. Embick, is an "elder statesman" of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington.

Until he went to India, he headed a secret General Staff group in Washington that helped map global strategy, including some of D-Day in Europe. Strongly favoring tripartite training, he helped start the new Joint Army and Navy Staff College, drawing on two years' study at the German Kriegsakademie (War Academy). Thence he returned in 1938 a Major, at 41.

—RAPID RISE—

His rapid rise is due also to his little-known earlier experience in China, where he learned Mandarin, and the Philippines as well as his Command and General Staff School training. He is an infantryman, but air-minded; would probably be happiest commanding one of the airborne divisions he considers the units of the future. His air-mindedness is lucky, since his job involves command of all American troops in China and they are now largely air.

Dan I. Sultan, too, is well-fitted for his job and unusual as his name—for the same reason: He is a technician who has performed the unusual feat of making himself a field general. Since graduating from West Point he has been until lately, mostly an engineer, and a good one. He has built fortifications and roads in the Philippines, surveyed the proposed Nicaragua Canal; now he has in his province one of the world's worst highway jobs—hewing through Burmese jungle and crag the Lodo Road that already has helped save India and will, when completed, help save China.

Also he will command all American troops in India, ground and air. He showed he could do it, when he turned down an engineer's staff job in Washington to command a division in the field. Many lifelong engineers could not accomplish this feat and would not risk trying. Sultan made good, got a Corps, and a Lieutenant General's third star, then the CBI job as Deputy Commander to Mountbatten.

There he uses some engineering traits: Analysis, planning, method, initiative, determination. He does not bluff, but hits hard, like the stocky football player he was at West Point. His dark, clean-shaven face is serious, but he is popular. He will make his men go through jungle, mountain, air, hell or high water—and like it.

Gracie Allen Says.

Well, here we are in historic Boston where, according to some poet, the Lowells speak only to the Cabots. My dear Irish mother was born here but we aren't exactly Beacon Street Society. In our case the Allens spoke only to the Sullivans—no one else would talk to us.

My husband has been telling me the fascinating history of New England. George is so smart; he knew the history of every state in the Union when he was just a boy. Of course when George was a boy there weren't so many states.

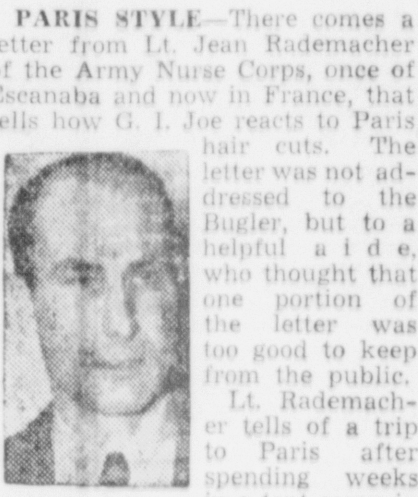

We've been seeing the historical sights here in Boston. We stood before the old North Church from whose tower Paul Revere got his signal. We walked up Bunker Hill. And we peeked into the Harvard club where are preserved the remains of some actual cigarettes.

Good Morning!

is everything she had thought it might be, and she was amazed at the styles and fashions, the shoes and the shops. She even had a Parisian permanent.

But one incident, related to her by a G. I. Joe, will tickle your funny-bone.

It seems the G. I. also in Paris, needed a haircut and went into a barber shop for a trim. After the usual scissoring and clipping the soldier thought the barber was monkeying around a long time with his hair but he sat tight, being unaccustomed to foreign ways.

But then to his horror he heard the French barber suggesting that it was now time for G. I. Joe to "slip under the dryer" to have his wave set! Ripping off the hair net the soldier got out of there in a hurry.

WHY WORRY—War correspondents and commentators are making considerable over the propensity of the Japanese to choose self destruction rather than surrender. And now that Himmler has urged the Germans to emulate the Japs in their fanatical inclination to take their own lives rather than submit to capture, we can only hope that the war will come to a speedy ending.

Those who view this predisposition of the Japs to suicide rather than live are convinced there is something uncivilized in our approach to the problems of the Japs and the Germans. This seems to be putting the cart before the horse. If the Japs so far distrust us as to prefer self-destruction to surrender, then they can save the world a great deal of trouble if they will follow their desire now instead of waiting a few more months.

A people which has become so irrational as to believe all the bogey-man stories of their propagandists are better off dead. It would be impossible, and perhaps unwise, to attempt to convert such unstable mentalities to rational thought processes. Only benefit to the world could come from the Germans accepting Himmler's advice to suicide rather than surrender. It will save a civilized world the effort to cope with a people so perverted mentally.

PET PEEVE—Writes a contributor: "My pet peeve is the very busy business executive type who has his secretary call you on the telephone—and then you sit there clutching the receiver until he gets around to answering."

That's an old custom prevalent in some quarters. It has its good points for certain occasions—like placing long distance calls. But to by-pass all your local phone calls through a secretary only wastes your time, the secretary's time and the time of the person you are calling.

NOT SUPERNATURAL—Here in Escanaba folks are dusting off their outja boards after a score of years of being piled away in the attic with the horse-hair covered seats, and are inviting in their less fortunate friends for an evening with the occult. And in the stores the sales of outja boards have doubled and tripled.

No matter how much you may lean toward implicit belief in the authenticity of the messages from outja, you have to admit that it

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1934

Lansing—Viewed in some political circles as the opening move to make him the Democratic nominee for governor in 1936, a testimonial dinner was accorded Auditor General John K. Stack tonight. As the main speaker, the fighting auditor general from Escanaba pledged cooperation to Governor elect Frank D. Fitzgerald. Stack was one of the two Democrats on the state ticket to survive the November election.

St. Ignace—Upwards of 20,000 lower Michigan hunters will cross the straits in quest of deer in the Upper Peninsula, it was estimated by state ferry officials.

20 Years Ago—1924

Gregory Meliski, a farmer living at Section 13, was found in an unconscious condition Saturday morning lying on the roadside pinned under the box of a wagon which had turned completely over at the side of the road. Just how the accident happened was unknown.

Gladstone—Gladstone's sham battle came near becoming a tragedy Friday night when a spark blown from a nearby fireworks accident ignited a trench bomb, the bomb exploding directly in front of Eugene Brassick, cutting and burning him severely about the face and throat.

25 Years Ago—1919

A telegram yesterday to C. E. Helmer, superintendent of the Peninsula division of the C. & N. W. made it plain that the coal regulations placed in force by the government at the beginning of the coal strike will not be removed until normal production of soft coal is resumed. Priorities on existing supplies were listed in the following order: Railroads, Army and Navy, together with departments of the government; State and county departments and institutions and public utilities.

takes two minds and two sets of hands to make it work. And besides this, the two heads and two pairs of hands must work in harmony. Otherwise outja is sulky and scrambles its messages.

It's the same with most so-called "good reading." Escanaba Town Hallers who heard and saw Dr. Frank Polgar now realize that the famous "thought reader" would have failed had the audience and the subjects selected from it refused to cooperate. All they had to do was to give out with some mental misinformation and Polgar would have had to cancel out on the performance.

The war probably accounts for the increasing interest in mind reading. Behind it lies the anxiety of thousands of persons for loved ones who are living and fighting in dangerous battle areas the world around. The living room session with outja, or the town hall demonstration, are amusing, mystifying and completely relax your mind from your everyday worries.

TO THE FULL—Some folks go in for deer hunting completely. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Simpson, who live out along the bay shore, and their friends are that kind of people. For about four days prior to the opening of the deer season, to the day after the season closes, they spend every minute in the woods and in their hunting camp up near Ralph. That makes an amateur of the guy who ambles out for an afternoon's hunting of Pioneer Trail Park.

ANSWER PLEASE—An explanation would be in order from those who oppose any change in county government. The question is:

Why is it necessary for the county to continue to elect a county surveyor and a county drain commissioner?

Neither receive a salary, nor are they provided with office space as are other county officers. For this reason it seems obvious they are also without public duties.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—Those around the White House say that this time the President really means business when it comes to cleaning out his Cabinet. Of course, this word has been passed out so often that some intimates are keeping their fingers crossed.

However, it is a fact that Roosevelt is now faced with some situations he cannot escape, other situations which have made him sore. In the former category is Cordell Hull's health. In the latter category is Jesse Jones. As a result, various names have been put in the White House and are being examined carefully.

Here are some of the names which may feature in the new cabinet.

Secretary of Commerce—Marriner Eccles, now chairman of the Federal Reserve Board; or Leon Henderson; or Chester Bowles, now OPA administrator; or Beardsley Ruml, author of the Ruml tax plan and considered a liberal big-business man.

Secretary of Labor—Dan Tobin, head of the teamsters' union; or John Winant, now Ambassador to London and former head of the International Labor Office. Winant, however, would prefer to be Secretary of State. Tobin, if appointed, is about the only AFL leader who would be acceptable to the CIO.

Postmaster General—Robert Hannegan. Frank Walker, now Postmaster General, believes that the Democratic national chairman should also be Postmaster and, being a retiring person anyway, Walker is ready to step out.

Secretary of Agriculture—Roosevelt is hoping to persuade Henry Wallace to take this job again. If not, Wallace will be offered the ambassadorship to Moscow, considered vitally important, or chairmanship of the international food organization. Roosevelt feels that it would be difficult politically to make Wallace Secretary of State because of opposition from Hull and Senate reactionaries.

Secretary of State—Ex-Justice Jimmy Byrnes or Ambassador Winant. Appointment of Byrnes would smooth things down for Hull, who isn't anxious to resign even though in the hospital. Hull would kick like a mule if Sumner Welles or Wallace were to succeed him. Byrnes also gets along well with Senate Foreign Relations chairman Tom Connally and other reactionaries.

Secretary of the Interior—Harold Ickes. Attorney General—Francis Biddle. Roosevelt will not accept either Biddle's or Ickes' resignation. They were his top campaign speakers.

NOTE—After FDR defeated Willkie in 1940, Miss Perkins submitted her resignation. Her letter has been in the White House files since Jan. 15, 1941. The President never acted on it.

KAISER'S MERCHANT FLEET—Demon ship-builder Henry Kaiser thinks he has found an answer to the burning question of how he can use some of the great fleet of merchant ships he has built, and still keep on building more after the war.

Kaiser plans to enter competition with the West Coast shipping lines, set up his own shipping business, try to emphasize smart salesmanship, cheap freight rates, mass orders. He says his only hope is a free and open market in the Orient, thinks he can do a more efficient job of shipping both to and from the Far East than a lot of old-line companies.

—KENNEDY AND ROOSEVELT—

One of the mysteries of the recent campaign was what went on inside the White House when ex-Ambassador Joseph Patrick Kennedy, who had been damning Roosevelt up and down for weeks, went to call on the man he criticized.

It was known that Kennedy had reserved radio time to blast the President. It was realized that he had powerful influence with the Irish, especially in Boston and Brooklyn, where Roosevelt strength was shaky. Kennedy had served as chairman of Roosevelt's Securities and Exchange Commission, as chairman of his Maritime Commission, had been sent by him as Ambassador to London. Nevertheless, Joe was critical of FDR's foreign policies, had been carefully coked up for public attack.

At this point, Bob Hannegan persuaded Joe to drop in at the White House.

During that visit, Roosevelt didn't say a word about politics. He didn't ask Kennedy to support him. He didn't ask him not to deliver his planned radio attack.

What the President did was to talk about Joe's son who was killed in the war, about old times when the two men were working together, and about plans to use U. S. merchant ships after the war. He asked Joe if he would make a study of Henry Kaiser's plan for a streamlined steamship organization to take American goods all over the world in American bottoms.

Joe didn't say much when he left the White House—but he cancelled his radio time. Later, he told Bob Hannegan that he did not vote for Dewey.

SUCCESS MARKS SEASON OPENING

Snow, Colder Weather Forecast For This Area Today

Better than usual success marked the opening of the 1944 deer hunting season in the Escanaba area yesterday, according to reports from hunters who bagged bucks the first day. This coincides with previous reports by conservation officers that deer were plentiful in Michigan's Northwoods this year.

Added to the hunters' enthusiasm is the prospect of colder weather and accompanying snow, which is expected to aid them in tracking down their quarry.

weather bureau meteorologist, said yesterday the forecast was for light rain changing to snow last night, with snow flurries and cold Thursday with slippery roads. The temperature low in Escanaba last night was 28 degrees, with readings of around 23 degrees farther inland. Northwest storm warning were displayed in Escanaba last night.

No hunting accidents had been reported in the Escanaba area to a late hour last night, but conservation officers were urging extreme caution. The slippery roads were also the subject for a warning to hunters who might attempt haste in getting to the woods.

Among the first to report success in bagging bucks yesterday in this section were:

Henry Dahm of 1225 Lake Shore Drive, who downed a six-point, 180-pound buck at 7:30 a. m. yesterday in the Haymeadow area north of Rapid River. Hunting with Dahm were Leo Peters of Escanaba and Martin Witte of Schaffer.

Norman Tebar of 1117 First avenue north, brought down a 125-pound spikehorn at 50 yards at 7:45 a. m. He was hunting near Ford River.

William R. Bergstrom of Bark River, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, got his buck in the Narenta Swamp. It weighed 180 pounds.

First woman hunter reported to have filled her license was Laura Parent, 302 South 12th street, who shot a two-prong 150-pounder at Helps, where two years ago she bagged a 230-pound buck. Hunting with her at Helps are Charles Pepin and Charles River of Escanaba.

Pair Confesses Robbery Motive In Gilbeau Death

Robbery was the motive which resulted in the fatal slugging of Charles Gilbeau, 57-year-old Escanaba laborer, at the rear door of his home last Saturday night, Police Chief Michael Ettenhofer said yesterday.

The police chief's statement was made after most of yesterday was spent in receiving confession statements from Harry Curry, 20, of South Bark River, and Anita Joyce Peterson, 19, of Escanaba, who are charged with murder in connection with Gilbeau's death.

Curry and Miss Peterson voluntarily made full and complete confessions regarding their parts in the attack on Gilbeau which caused his death, Chief Ettenhofer said. It is expected that the youth and girl will be arraigned today in Justice Henry Ranguette's court. If they waive examination they will immediately be bound over to circuit court, which does not convene until January.

The young couple was returned to Escanaba from Milwaukee Tuesday night by Deputy Sheriff John Fredrickson. They were taken in custody at Milwaukee Sunday night at the North Western Railway station by Milwaukee police.

In their confession statements made yesterday Curry and Miss Peterson told Escanaba police they had bought tickets to Escanaba and were at the station waiting for the train when they were arrested.

rested. They said, according to police, they planned to return to Escanaba to give themselves up.

Police Chief Ettenhofer said that Curry in his statement had confessed to striking Gilbeau on the head three times with a club about two feet long. Gilbeau was attacked as he stepped out of the back door of his house on his way to a tavern to purchase cigarettes and beer at the suggestion of Miss Peterson.

Miss Peterson had gone to Gilbeau's house shortly before 11 o'clock Saturday night, according to a statement by Gilbeau to the police after the attack, and before he lapsed into unconsciousness. Miss Peterson had stayed at Gilbeau's for about four months last summer, police said.

About $200 which Gilbeau had in a wallet in his pocket was taken after he was slugged. Curry in his statement was quoted by police as saying that he had taken the money, and that he had about $87 left at the time of his arrest.

In statements from other persons it was revealed that Curry and Miss Peterson had come to Escanaba from Bark River Saturday evening in a car with four other persons. They got out at the North Western Railway station in Escanaba and were absent from the others for about half an hour. None of the others in the group were parties to the crime, police said.

Witnesses told police that Curry had no money earlier in the evening, but later Saturday night and early Sunday morning he had in his possession about $200. Sunday morning Curry and Miss Peterson went to Milwaukee by train from Powers. They spent the day in Milwaukee and were arrested there Sunday night.

Lt. Charles Little Excellent Instructor

Trenary—Lt. Charles J. Little, of Fort Meade, Md., son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Little, has won the honor of being an excellent instructor at his base at Fort Meade.

Following is an account which was printed in the Fort Meade paper:

Lt. Charles J. Little B-27-7 Censorship Excellent.

In his one hour class on Censorship, Lieutenant Little encourages his men to write home as often as possible, but with discretion. He points out that, while the Army has set up safeguards in the form of censorship of all mail coming from combat areas, it should not be necessary inasmuch as the restriction of vital information is as much a part of the average soldier's defense as is the helmet he wears into battle. He would not think of fighting without his helmet. He ought to try to evade or circumvent the common sense rules of censorship.

The lieutenant illustrates this point through the use of an innocent appearing letter, presumably written from a point in England. He shows how nothing said directly in the letter conveys any vital information. He also shows how, in the hands of the Nazi intelligence officers, the letter's commonplace generalities can be analyzed to show a convoy route, an unusual concentration of troops within enemy bombing range, and an impending invasion. He encourages all men to self-censor their mail in a 15 minute dissertation on the "Don'ts" of letter writing at the end of the period.

Lt. Little, who was the Superintendent of Schools in Uhley, Mich., before entering the service, has been in the army since Sept. 1942. He trained and attended O. C. S. at Ft. Riley, Kansas and has been at the Depot since its inauguration in August, 1943.

THERE'S A BREAK IN THE CLOUDS

This Thanksgiving Season, perhaps more than any other, should be a time for giving thanks to a kind Providence for the good things that have come to us.

There's much for which to be thankful.

Our industries have met the challenge of war. With fortitude and skill workers have labored long hours, producing all of the things needed to wage victorious battle.

Our farmers have toiled to produce larger and ever larger yields. A "salvo" to them, and their Victory Garden "cousins," for the miracles they have performed in feeding a nation and its fighters.

Our railroad workers continue their untiring, 'round-the-clock effort. On them has fallen the responsibility of moving millions of uniformed men, equipment and supplies. Their accomplishments have amazed a nation.

Our armed forces are pushing forward in every theatre of war—forward to the complete collapse of the Axis powers—forward, ever forward, to the day when every uniformed American will be home again. To them, our undying gratitude!

Yes, there is a "break in the clouds of war"—an ever-widening break. Final Victory is coming, and here at "North Western" we are thankful for the privilege that is ours to play a part in the swift-moving drama.

Troop 454 Scout Leaders Meeting Is Held Tuesday

A meeting of Scout leaders of Troop 454, sponsored by the local Lions club, was held in Escanaba city hall Tuesday evening, attended by Louis Linden, scoutmaster; C. W. Vadnais, troop committee chairman; E. E. Edick, leadership training committeeman; A. V. Aronson, city Scout commissioner; Robert Clayton, neighborhood commissioner for North Escanaba, and S. N. Bradford, assistant Scout executive.

Scoutmaster Linden reported on the various functions of the troop and proposed plans for furtherance of the Scouting program. The report stated that there were 16 registered Scouts, with six as candidates, which will raise the total enrollment to 22 when all are registered.

A brief session on the responsibilities and duties of the troop committee was presented by leadership training committeeman, Ed Edick. Definite duties and obligations were placed before the troop committee in order that the troop under its sponsorship may have the best of leadership and cooperation, besides the necessary backing needed from time to time.

Robert Clayton, neighborhood commissioner, gave the duties of a commissioner, with regard to troops or units under his jurisdiction, and also how the commissioner works between the scoutmaster, troop committee and the executive. Commissioners are to meet with their units at least once a month after which reports of such visitations are reported upon at local commissioners' meetings, held every five weeks.

Closing remarks by A. V. Aronson stressed the need for more understanding between all Scouting units and their sponsorship. By such meetings as the getting together of the scoutmaster, his troop committee, head of the sponsoring organization, commissioners, training committeemen and other leaders, problems can be talked over and worked out which will be beneficial to all concerned.

C. W. Vadnais, troop committee chairman, expressed his views from the standpoint of a sponsoring institution, in that more information should be given to troop

Hunting from the Goodman camp, north of Northland, John A. Peterson of Powers killed an eight-point buck on the opening day of the season. The animal weighed 180 pounds.

Oh, Goody! Fresh Apple Pie!

America's favorite dessert . . . especially good when made of those big, juicy, richly flavored Michigan apples. And especially patriotic, with Uncle Sam urging fruit for a balanced diet, particularly fruit grown near home. Canned Michigan apples and canned apple sauce supply the flavor and wholesomeness of fresh Michigan apples in convenient form.

APPLE PIE

Pare, core and slice enough tart apples to fill your pastry shell. Then blend 1 cup sugar with 2 tablespoons flour. Place 1/2 the mixture over bottom of unbaked shell. Fill shell slightly heaping with apples. Pour over apples remaining sugar and flour mixture. Dot with bits of butter. Wet edge of bottom crust; place top crust over. Trim off pastry 1 inch from edge of pan. Tuck top pastry under bottom pastry, press edges together and flute the rim. Bake 450° F. for 15 minutes then reduce temperature to 350° F. for 25 minutes or until apples are tender.

Shortages Of Manpower Still Plague Industry

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Coming back from a tour around the country, you get something of a shock when you read that there's a new manpower shortage. Or maybe it's the same old manpower shortage in a new disguise.

You get a shock because practically everywhere you looked, out in the country, there seemed to be men enough for superfluous jobs. Hotels and places of entertainment are running full blast in a pale imitation of the boom of the late twenties.

Just a little investigation shows how acute the manpower shortages are in certain vital fields. In spite of General Eisenhower's telegram warning that it is necessary to ration the heavy artillery on the European front, each gun being given only enough shells for a limited period of fire, expected deliveries in coming months will not be adequate to meet military needs.

Foundry Work Lags

The shortage of cotton duck for tenting in the Philippines is acute.

Paul Bunyan Shelf At Public Library

A wooden sign, rustic in design, reading "Paul Bunyan Shelf" tops the section at the Carnegie Public Library now containing books of interest to high school young people. Over the shelves hangs an original Paul Bunyan illustration. Some of the books recently placed on these shelves are: Paul Bunyan, Edith Shephard; Seventeenth Summer, Maureen Daly; My Sister and I, Dirk Van der Heide; Men under the Sea, Edward Ellsberg; Games Outdoors, Ray Marran; For Magicians Only, Robert Parrish; All American, J. R. Tunis; Subchaser Jim, Josef Berger; Johnny Tremaine, Esther Forbes; The Correct Thing, W. O. Stevens; Tall Timber, S. H. Hobbrook; Bugles in the Afternoon, Ernest Haycox; How to Play Better Basketball, H. Barbour; All About Broadcasting, Creighton Peet.

Schedules for the last quarter of this year will not be met. The foundry industries have failed to meet production requirements, and one result is a shortage of heavy trucks. Radar production, vital to modern warfare, is considerably below military needs.

In the course of discussion on how to clear up these bad spots in an otherwise encouraging picture, a big propaganda campaign was proposed to shame the American people into a sense of failure. It was to be headlined by speeches from our military leaders describing the seriousness of these failures.

This proposal was vetoed by the war manpower commission. The argument used by WMC that since the job was for the most part being done, with the average American sticking to his wartime assignment, such a campaign would do more harm than good.

It's easy to talk about "cracking down." But Congress has never passed a national service act which would make a crackdown possible. And stringent measures are always greeted with cries of pain and rage. A provision in the tax bill which would have had the effect of compelling cabaret performers to seek jobs in war industry was the subject of widespread agitation that finally persuaded Congress to soften the law.

Government officials and production experts are now visiting production areas where the manpower shortage is most acute. One objective is to see to it that foundries which have been making castings for farm machinery turn back to the kind of production that will give the military the heavy trucks they need.

That could easily stir up a political hornet's nest. With Congress back in session, the farm lobby will certainly be out working for more farm machinery.

Need Artillery Ammunition

The shifting course of the war has a lot to do with these recurrent crises in manpower. It was always went on a prearranged schedule, then it would be easy.

The need for heavy artillery ammunition has exceeded any demand foreseeable a year ago. Bombing from planes simply didn't turn the trick on the Siegfried line. Production schedules are doubled or tripled overnight.

The same thing happened with respect to trucks. Europe's railway system was destroyed from the air. Our armies, with their vast burden of supplies, had to move by motorized caravan.

Somehow, these shortages must be cured. Enforced silence for those big guns is intolerable. We, here at home, must pass the ammunition.

I found that many industrial workers are weary. That is especially true of younger women, many of them new to industry. But no one can be as tired as the men who are fighting it out in Europe's mud.

England has had a national service act and some strikes. In Russia, non-producers go hungry. We have used the voluntary system, and while it is imperfect, it has carried us a long way.

Men's Brotherhood Formed At Church

The Men's Brotherhood of the First Methodist Church will hold its first meeting at the church starting with a venison feed served by women of one of the church circles at 6:30 o'clock, November 27. Guest speaker will be Judge W. G. Stephens of Manistique who will discuss the place of such a men's club in the church and the community.

One of the main purposes of the organization will be to make servicemen feel welcome in the church and at home in Escanaba. Plans are being made for brotherhood members to write to servicemen.

From 45 to 50 men are expected to turn out for the first meeting. The organizational committee includes the Rev. Otto Steen, Fred Johnson, Gene Hebert, Harvey Germanson, and John Bartlett.

All men are invited to join the club. Reservations should be given to committee members.

OPA Cancels Listing Of Tire Applicants

The requirement that local War Price and Rationing Boards post a weekly list of applicants granted ration certificates to buy new tires was cancelled by the Office of Price Administration. This action is effective November 22, 1944.

Instead, local boards will make the names of persons granted new tire certificates available to any interested persons. This change was made, OPA said, to relieve boards of the administrative burden of preparing and posting weekly lists when, it is believed, merely making the names available on request will serve the same purpose.

There was only one pawnbroker in all of Scotland in the early part of the 19th century.

Estimated postwar air passenger traffic is 700,000,000 passenger miles yearly, compared with the 104,000,000 prewar annual total. One thousand five hundred planes should handle this business.

Betty Crocker says: "WHEN YOU BAKE BREAD, FOLLOW THE RECIPE BELOW . . . FOR High, Beautiful Loaves!"

1 TO KNEAD, fold dough toward you. Press gently but firmly away with the heel of the hand. Give dough a quarter turn with other hand. Repeat till smooth and elastic.

2 COVER with damp cloth to prevent the dough from crustifying. If your kitchen is cool, place covered bowl of dough in a closed cupboard near a pan of hot water.

3 LET RISE till double in bulk (and light enough to retain finger impression). Punch down with fist, fold edges into center, turn over in bowl and cover.

4 LET RISE again till nearly double in bulk . . . then divide dough for loaves, cover and let rest about 15 minutes to make the dough easy for you to handle.

5 FLATTEN each part of dough into oblong shape with knuckles. Work quickly, pressing out air.

6 NOW FOLD each flattened part of the dough in half (lengthwise), and flatten again.

7 LIFT BY THE ENDS and pull out, slapping the dough on the table several times to elongate it.

8 BRING THE ENDS to the center, overlap and flatten well with the knuckles.

9 TAKE HOLD of the further edge of the dough, and fold it toward you 1/2 of the way at a time . . . sealing well.

10 NOW ROLL to tighten, seal each end, and place in pans, sealed edge down. Cover and let rise.

11 REMOVE from pans as soon as baked, and place on wire rack till cool. Be sure to keep out of drafts.

Crumble into mixing bowl . . . 2 cakes compressed yeast

Add . . . 6 cups (1 1/2 qts.) lukewarm liquid (milk, water or potato water) (milk should be scalded and cooled to 80°)

6 tbsp. sugar

3 tsp. salt

Let stand until thoroughly dissolved (about 5 minutes).

Add . . . 19 cups (2 1/4 qts.) sifted GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Enriched Flour

Beat with spoon until smooth and elastic (batter will fall from spoon in "sheets").

Beat in . . . 6 tbsp. shortening (melted and cooled) to 9 3/4 more cups (2 1/4 to 2 1/2 qts.) sifted GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Enriched Flour (enough to make a dough that no longer sticks to mixing bowl and is possible to handle)

Turn dough onto lightly-floured board, cover, let stand 10 minutes to tighten up. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl. Cover with damp cloth. Keep dough at 80° to 85° until double (about 2 hours). Punch down dough. Round up and set to rise again until not quite double (about 45 minutes). Punch down dough. Divide into 6 equal parts. Round up each part on board, cover, let rest 15 minutes (to make it easy to handle). Mold each part into a loaf, and place in greased bread loaf pan (8" x 4"). Cover with damp cloth. Let rise 1 1/2 to 2 hours or until dough has reached top of pan and center is well rounded above. Bake 15 minutes in a hot oven (450°); then 20 to 30 minutes in a quick moderate oven (375°). When baked, bread has hollow sound when tapped and comes away from sides of pan. Makes six 1-lb. loaves.

Your baker sells delicious yeast bread . . . but if you bake at home, try this superb Betty Crocker recipe for better results.

Freedom Theme
Of Lecture at Club Meeting

A dramatic presentation by Eleanor Sikes Peters featured the opening luncheon meeting of the Escanaba Woman's club, held on Tuesday at the Sherman Hotel, the theme of her lecture the fact that the spirit of freedom loving people will not permit anything but freedom to prevail.

Mrs. Peters first gave a scene from "The Friendly Enemies," in which a son defies his father who had come to America as a poor boy and made his way, enlists in the Army and fights in the first World War. He explains his aims and ideals of freedom and opportunity and it is only later that the word democracy is re-explained, emphasizing not only the American viewpoint but the new meaning of being only one of nations with freedom and democracy their goal.

A second scene enacted was from "The American Way," in which a mother and father of German origin, who have made a new life in America, send their son into World War I, and after he is killed, bring up his son. The scene describes the aged grandfather's appeal to the youth not to join the German Bund, and his attempt to teach him that freedom is of equal importance with living and breathing. The grandfather is killed by members of the Bund but the boy realizes the beauty of his grandfather's life of peace and tolerance and his death fighting for the freedom which made life rich and beautiful to him.

The third scene given by Mrs. Peters was from "There Shall Be No Light," a discussion of the progress of the world toward the ultimate goal, civilization. It takes place in a First Aid station on the Russian-Finnish front between a group of soldiers awaiting attack and a learned scientist who gives them the thought that all have within themselves the power to conquer beastiality with the light which is the mind.

"The Moon Is Down" depicted the beautiful courage of the mayor of a town in the hands of the enemy when he refuses to commend that the villagers cease resisting though it means his death. Sorrowfully he explains that their theory is wrong and that in spite of it the free men will throw off the yoke of oppression.

In closing Mrs. Peters said, "The courage and sacrifice for freedom is simply the common man of free countries applying the lessons of a life time and this shining thing, this glorious thing, Hitler cannot conquer—it is the future, it is victory!"

The drama-lecture followed a short business meeting of the club. The committee for the day was Mrs. C. W. Bissell, chairman; Mrs. W. J. Henderson, co-chairman; and Mesdames R. W. Hawbaker, H. J. Huckenpahler, E. L. Pohl and E. A. Wenner.

Alice Meighen Taught Chinese
Naval Officers at Swarthmore

BY JESLYN POWERS

Teaching Chinese Naval officers for four months, from November to February, 1943-44, was a unique experience for Miss Alice Meighen, 519 South Eighth street, who is now writing text books here. She instructed these men in English at Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pa.

The officers, who ranged in age from 19 to 27, numbered about 50 and were divided into groups of eight. All were university men from Chungking and other Chinese cities. The top-ranking eight or ten spoke fairly good English upon coming to Swarthmore, while the others spoke little or none, but learned rapidly. The men spent eight months at the college, receiving four hours of English each day for the first four months and entering regular college classes for the remaining four months.

Miss Meighen, in describing the method of teaching these Chinese officers, said that they were taught conversational English by tying up the classwork with all types of experiences surrounding the students—shopping in various types of stores, attending dances or going on excursions. At first with guides and later by themselves, these men visited Philadelphia, its museums, Liberty Bell and other historical places. Special war movies and lectures by nationally-known figures were brought to Swarthmore for these technically-minded students.

Chinese Courteous

"The Chinese officers were very grateful to Americans for everything done to help them and their country; they were courteous and fine to work with," Miss Meighen mentioned. She went on to report that they became almost a Swarthmore community project. The citizens came to know them, to stop and talk with them on the streets, and invited six or eight to their homes for Sunday dinner. To be sure of their popular guests, however, citizens wishing to invite them had to do so several weeks in advance. These young men were also favorites with children, who had quite a hobby of collecting their autographs.

The frankness between American boys and girls, whom they liked so much, particularly surprised and pleased the Chinese men. The college students organized for them, classes in jitting-bugging, which interested them more than other types of American dancing.

The officers were impressed with New York City but did not like it. "They disliked anything which spelled rush," said Miss Meighen. United States means of transportation and the traffic of its large cities was a constant source of amazement to them.

Though they did enjoy themselves, these Chinese had only one end in view—the defeat of the Japanese. They thought, talked and played in one term, their former teacher reported. Though they hesitated to mention the war, when given an opening to discuss it, they did so with much vigor.

Prepare Reading Course

The education which these brilliant students received at Swarthmore was preparing them for further instruction. After their eight months, there, some went to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, while others went to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Miss Meighen, sister of Miss Mary Meighen of this city, has been devoting most of her time to writing for the past five years. She is employed by the John C. Winston company and has her main office in Chicago. Working together, Miss Meighen and Miss Marjorie Pratt who has also been in Escanaba since September, are completing the last of a series called "Easy Growth in Reading." There are six books for grammar school pupils. Reading matter in books for the lower grades was original with the authors, but that in the others came from stories bought by them and adapted to the grade level.

The readers or colorfully illustrated. Miss Meighen stated that Corinne Malvern of New York did art work on those in the intermediate series, fourth, fifth and sixth grades; and that others were illustrated by several well-known artists. The books are used throughout the United States and Canada. Dr. Gertrude Hildreth of Columbia University and Allie Lou Felton, known to a number of Escanabans, have also worked with Miss Meighen and Miss Pratt.

Nurses Receive Instruction In Special Course

Seven registered nurses of the Upper Peninsula are attending a six-day course, which began Monday and will continue through Saturday, in Red Cross home nursing. Miss Lillian Upham of the Midwestern Area Office of the American Red Cross in St. Louis, is instructing the course at the Delta County health center, 1219 North 19th street.

The streamlined course, which was developed with the assistance of the training within the industry division of the War Manpower Commission, includes six two-hour lessons on nursing procedures. It was begun six months ago and has already been taught in the Lower Peninsula, but this is the first time such instruction has been given in the Upper Peninsula.

Symptoms of illness, taking temperatures and care of the sick room constitute the first lesson; putting the patient to bed and changing a bed with a patient in it are learned at the second; giving a bed bath and general evening care are the third; diet and medicine according to the doctor's prescription are the fourth; treatments following the doctor's orders are learned at the fifth; and the final lesson is on communicable diseases and also includes a review of the previous lessons. The purpose of the course, in which improvised equipment is used in place of hospital equipment, is to relieve crowded conditions in hospitals and to help doctors who have more work than they can possibly handle.

Kelley, Buckmaster And Holm Kill Deer

Gordon Kelley, local undertaker was the first to return to Gladstone with his buck, as far as is known. Kelley arrived in Gladstone about 10 o'clock with a fine four-pointer on the left front fender which he said he killed near the Dutch Mill, north of Rapid River. The deer weighed about 135 pounds.

Elmer Holm returned yesterday afternoon with a 140-pound, 6-point which he killed at 9:45 a. m. near Ensign while hunting with Waldemar Anderson. Holm shot the deer as it lay sleeping under a tree.

Shirley Buckmaster got his closest to home early yesterday. He went in to the old dumping ground on top the north bluff and three came along, a big buck, a spikehorn and a doe. Buckmaster killed the small buck and returned to the city to place it in a cooler.

Grocer Fined $200 For Overcharging

O. F. Smits of Manistique, doing business as the Standard Food Shop, appeared before the Enforcement Division of the OPA recently to answer allegations of overcharges on groceries in violation of OPA ceiling prices. Louis J. Gregory, Escanaba, head of the legal department, reported.

Settlement in the amount of $200 was effected in the treble-damage suit instituted by the governmental agency. A check for this amount has been turned over to the treasurer of the United States.

The action against Smits followed referral of the case to the District Enforcement Division at Escanaba, by the School County Price Panel.

Under OPA regulations, a person charged with a violation may be summoned before the County Price Panel for a hearing. If the Panel determines that the violation was unintentional, or that it was intentional but there were mitigating circumstances, they have the authority to make an adjustment, and to ask for a signed statement of compliance. However, if the matter cannot be adjusted by the Price Panel, the case is then referred to the Enforcement Division at Escanaba for legal action. Treble damages can be claimed by the government.

Hunter Parade Dwindles As Deer Season Opens

Life in Manistique has resumed its customary routine. No longer are the streets, restaurants, taverns, pool halls and bowling alleys teeming with men wearing clothes, that because of their uniform red would lead one almost to believe that some strange army of occupation had descended upon the city.

Figures as to the number of hunters coming to this area are not available, but it is far in excess of any previous year. Saturday and Sunday saw the crest of this vanguard flocking into Manistique. Not since some special occasion before gas rationing went into effect has so many cars been on the highways.

In addition the car ferry plying between here and Frankfort has been loaded to the limit allowed by law (80 passengers) and Sunday two boats were pressed into service. According to officials of the Ann Arbor Railway, hundreds of other prospective hunters had to be turned away. Many hunters came with trailers, others are stopping at resorts, camps and farm homes in the area, but by far the most of them are camping out in tents.

Although the conservation department is well manned in this region, reports of game law violations have, to date, been remarkably few. Officers of this department and the state police are, however, more concerned with helping to keep to a minimum the number of accidents that are sure to occur.

The local state police office reports that about seventy-five hunters from down state have registered at the station giving their home address and information as to where they may be found in case any emergency, such as serious illness or death in the family, should require a quick return home. The department will be glad to register any and all hunters visiting this area as it has been its experience in years past that many calls came in and much trouble was experienced in locating the people wanted.

Local industry will be somewhat undermanned for the time being, but most of this hunting will be done over the week end.

The first deer in the Manistique area was reported shot by a Detroit man in Thompson township about 9:30 a. m. Wednesday. It was a five-point buck.

Communication

AN OPEN LETTER

Mr. Earl LeBrasseur, Chairman, Schoolcraft County Price Panel, City.

Dear Earl:

You were given credit for authorizing the story relative to broken ceiling prices appearing in yesterday's issue of this paper. The second paragraph of your story could have but one effect and that is to arouse public suspicion as to the compliance of all of the seventeen food stores within Manistique.

I do not believe your Price Panel intentionally sought to confuse the public, but the fact remains that your story could have no other result, I am not the least interested in knowing who may have violated any of the complicated O. P. A. regulations. I am sure that in some instances infractions have been purely technical and with no intent on the part of a grocer to maliciously extract a price in excess of the legal one.

As you know, Earl, both Mr. Huska and Mr. Chevrette of the O. P. A. who checked my establishment very thoroughly last week rated us 100 per cent in every phase of rationing compliance. I mention this merely to dispel any confusion regarding us in the minds of the public and not to seek praise for abiding by the laws of our country.

Sincerely yours,
Omer Schuster, Prop., Schuster's Super Food Mart.

COOKS BOY WINS BELATED HONOR

Wins All-Expense Trip To "Farmers Week" At State College

Wilbur Tanguay, the Cooks youth whose exhibits of potatoes in the 4-H club department at the Schoolcraft county potato show and later at the Upper Peninsula Potato Show at Escanaba, made such a conspicuous showing, has acquired further honors.

His rating in the 4-H exhibit at Escanaba, has just been given first place and as a result he will be given an all expense trip to the Farmers' Week observance at Michigan State College at East Lansing some time next February.

The honor comes belatedly because of a mistake made by the judges at the time the award was made. In a recent checkup the young man who had previously been awarded the honor was found to lack a very important qualification and was therefore ruled ineligible.

In awarding the 4-H Growers' Contest prize, a number of things beside the quality of the product entered had to be considered. Chief among these considerations were yield per acre, use of approved practices, placing of the sample at the show, a report by potato specialists interviewing the contestants and enrollment in the project for at least three successive years. The Dickinson county boy, who was given top rating at the show, failed in the last requirement. He had been enrolled in the project but two years.

This is the second time in two weeks that a Schoolcraft county 4-H club member has been awarded an all expense trip. The other is Lillian Mervin of Manistique, who was awarded a trip to the 4-H Club congress in Chicago, Ill., in December in recognition of her long time excellent record in 4-H activity.

A report was given on the present Scout organization in Manistique which at present includes three Brownie, three Intermediate and one Senior service troops with a total registration of two hundred girls and 30 adults.

The present officers of this association are: Miss Florence Panattoni, president; Mrs. Verlin Guidebecke, vice president and secretary, Miss Winnifred Orr, treasurer.

DEFENSE AIMED AT JUG GIRARD

Wisconsin Ace Expected
To Be Back In Line
For Michigan Game

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 15. (AP)—Coach H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, expecting Wisconsin's 17-year-old freshman quarterback, Earl (Jug) Girard, back in the Badger lineup for Saturday's Big Ten grid clash with Michigan, gave the Wolverines a heavy dose of pass defense scrimmage in today's workout.

Girard missed the Badgers' 27 to 6 victory over Iowa last week because of a leg injury suffered in the Purdue game a week previously. Rested, he is almost certain to be in shape for the Michigan clash.

"If Girard is back in the lineup we can expect Wisconsin to do a lot of passing," Crisler told the Michigan squad. "We want to be ready."

Crisler suggested that Wisconsin, which broke a four-game losing streak by whipping Iowa, could reach its peak against the Wolverines, who need to down the Badgers and Ohio State to take the Big Ten football crown.

"We're not playing Ohio State this week," Crisler warned his squad. "Wisconsin is next on our schedule and we're going to take them as they come."

The Wolverines came out of last week's 14 to 0 victory over Illinois in first class physical condition. Halfback Gene Derricotte suffered a minor leg injury but was running in Monday's drill and hardly limped today. Crisler indicated that the Wolverine lineup would be kept intact as it went against Penn and Illinois in its last two starts.

Ticket officials estimated that the Wisconsin game, last of the season in Michigan Stadium, would bring out approximately 25,000 fans—more if favorable weather prevails.

Friday Is Deadline To Change Site Of Army-Navy Contest

Washington, Nov. 15. (AP)—Time was rapidly running out tonight on the possibility of the Army-Navy football game being shifted from Annapolis to a big city stadium.

Government officials apparently had adopted a gridiron strategy, the lateral pass, and were tossing the Dec. 2 game back and forth, with no official announcement yet made.

Unless a definite decision is reached by Friday, officials said it will be too late to arrange for a change.

Capt. C. O. Humphreys, director of athletics at the Naval Academy, the home team, told the Associated Press that it will be a "physical impossibility" to print and distribute tickets later than Friday.

Admitting that everybody at Annapolis is on needles and pins over the proposed switch, Humphreys said that tickets can be distributed Nov. 24, if a decision is made right away.

President Roosevelt said yesterday that he planned to talk with Secretary of War Stimson about shifting the wartime service classic from the quiet setting of Annapolis to a big city, but no additional indication came from the White House today.

Drummond Island in Chippewa county Michigan, held by Britain until 1828, was the last U. S. location under the British flag.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gundersen

The new classifications of the upper peninsula schools, announced in the current issue of the Michigan High School Athletic Association Bulletin, brings up again the need for a more equitable realignment of teams for the district basketball tournaments next March. There are 14 Class B teams listed in the peninsula, divided as follows: five in the Escanaba district, four in the Marquette district, three in the Iron River district and only two in the copper country. There are 18 Class C schools, 19 Class D schools and 29 Class E schools.

The limited number of Class B schools in the peninsula suggests the possibility of revising the district tournaments in this classification to include only two preliminary Class B tournaments of seven teams each, rather than the four district tournaments that have been held annually. In this event, the winner and runner-up in each preliminary tournament could qualify for the Class B finals. Under such a setup, Iron River and Stambaugh might well be included with the five teams that now constitute the Escanaba district and Calumet, Houghton and Ironwood could be grouped with the four teams in the Marquette district.

Such an alignment would include the following: Iron River, Stambaugh, Escanaba, Kingsford, Manistiquette, Menominee and Iron Mountain in one division with Ironwood, Calumet, Houghton, and Iron River.

Don Prohaska, manager of the Sault Credit Bureau and the Sault Service Bureau, was elected vice president. His opponent on the ballot, as the result of a primary election held last week, was Richard Burnett, business manager of the Hiawathaland Broadcasting system.

Edward McGovern was re-elected as treasurer. Members of the board of directors elected were: J. A. Burns, Stanley Newton, Richard Burnett and Robert Ware.

Mounted on a collapsible mast, the beacon produces a coded flash of such intense split-second brilliance that its exact candle-power cannot be measured.

Buckeyes Campaign For Rose Bowl Bid

BY HAROLD HARRISON

Columbus, O., Nov. 15. (AP)—Ohio State university has reopened the fight to have the Western Conference permit its members to play in the Rose Bowl football game but an unofficial poll of conference schools was not too encouraging for supporters of the plan.

L. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State, disclosing today that the unbeaten and untied Bucks had received a tentative bid to the game, said a movement already had been started to have the Big Ten change its rule banning all post-season games.

He added, however, chances of changing the rule between now and the season end on Nov. 25 did not appear "too good."

But if the rule were changed and if Ohio State should receive a formal bid, the Bucks would accept, he said.

Iowa said it definitely favored the proposal and Athletic Directors Guy Mackey of Purdue and Kenneth (Tug) Wilson of Northwestern also expressed approval.

It was pointed out, however, that the final decision for each school rested with its faculty representative.

There were indications that Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota might not favor the plan. Indiana declined comment.

Ohio State officials also pointed out that Michigan, another championship contender, might be in line for a bid.

Ohio State is the only Big Ten team ever to have played in the Rose Bowl. That was in 1920 before the adoption of the no post-season game rule and in that tilt the Bucks were beaten by the University of California.

Lads Of 15 Lick Pinboy Shortages In Michigan

BY FRANK KENESSON

Detroit, Nov. 15. (AP)—Take it from Michigan's 420 bowling proprietors, the wartime pinboy shortage can be licked.

The answer: Fifteen-year-olds. Hardly a year ago many operators of this bowling hotbed's 3,400 alley beds were on the verge of closing their doors in the face of an acute shortage of pinboy help.

Today the "Michigan plan," carefully controlled "feeder system," supplies a steady flow of schoolboy pinsetters and 6,000 boys 15 through 17 years of age are at work regularly in bowling establishments approved by the state department of labor in 112 Michigan cities and towns.

A large percentage of the youths were, at the age of 15, considered too young for work until the pinboy system was conceived by a far-sighted group of proprietors in September, 1943.

Approval for issuance of working permits to 15-year-old boys was given by the state labor commissioner and required no legislation amending existing laws.

Under the system each boy adheres to a combined school-and-work program not to exceed ten hours a day, working not later than 11:30 p. m. and on alternate days only.

Each bowling establishment participating in the plan is approved by the state department of labor and the superintendent of schools in its community. The schools themselves issue working permits through placement centers, in some cases requiring applicants to maintain a designated scholastic average.

Constant inspection is conducted by the labor department and reports go to school superintendents, the state bowling coordinator representing proprietors, and the Building Service Trades Employees (AFL), representative of the pinboys.

W. W. Edgar, Detroit Free Press sports writer who has helped administer the system as state bowling co-ordinator, declares that the "Michigan plan" averted the breakup on many of Detroit's 1,500 men's leagues last winter and is keeping them going this year.

"Without the 15-year-old pinboys most of the leagues never could have finished their 1943-44 schedules," Edgar said. "With them, they not only completed the season but also finished on time."

ANTWERP WILL ASSIST ALLIES

Rails, Roads And Canals Through Belgium Are Vital

The liberation of Antwerp, with its excellent facilities for unloading Allied soldiers and war materials, points up the fact that this Belgian port has the use of railway yards rated the largest in Europe outside of much-bombed Hamburg. The Antwerp yards, five in number, have a handling capacity of about 15 thousand cars a day.

In addition to rail communication, the port is normally served by an extensive network of canals and rivers, says the National Geographic Society. These connect Antwerp with other Belgian centers and reach beyond into neighboring countries.

Rails Stretch to War Fronts
Four railways meet at Antwerp. Two others coming into the system a short distance from the port provide a total of six lines extending in all directions.

From Antwerp one rail route leads northward toward Nazi-held Rotterdam in the Netherlands, about 50 air miles away. A branch runs northeastward to liberated Breda. Toward the German fighting front, east and southeast of Antwerp, three railways extend, two of them going through captured Aachen, inside Germany.

The sixth railway represented in the great yards at Antwerp links the port with other coastal towns of Belgium and northern France, providing transportation routes through Antwerp from these areas now freed from German occupation.

In peacetime, the extensive rail, road, and waterway systems were important to Belgium's economy. They were used in the nation's own foreign commerce and also in its large transit trade between the outside world and the areas of inland Europe, chiefly in Germany, France, the Netherlands, and Switzerland. An indication of the port's capacity is seen in the record for 1937, a good year, in which more than 13,500 vessels totalling 25,500,000 tons, entered the harbor.

Bark River

Parent-Teacher Meeting
Bark River—Rev. Emory Pokrant was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Bark River Parent-Teachers Unit Thursday evening. During the business meeting it was announced that the contribution to the National War Fund amounted to $23.57 which was the association's share of proceeds of the benefit party.

Mrs. Ray Raymond, program chairman, introduced the speaker who gave a very interesting and timely address on "Christian Ethics for Parents and Teachers."

"Through teachers and parents, the character of children are moulded" was one of the points emphasized by the speaker. Justice, firmness and sympathetic love are needed by parents when dealing with a child. Things to be required of a child should be reasonable and by positive approach. Parents should set an example of good home and family life. Harmonious relationship between parents and children are essential. Teachers, in helping to mould a child's character, should know their subjects and treat the child as an individual.

A piano solo "Spring's Approach" was played by Betty McNaughton. A group of songs by Edward Polka and Edgar Erickson with guitar accompaniment added much to the program.

A delicious lunch and a social hour concluded the meeting.

Men In Service Educate Selves Through USAFI

Proof that men in the armed forces are doing some serious thinking and planning for their futures is seen in the fact that many of them are continuing their education through the United States Army Forces Institute which works in cooperation with high schools throughout the country.

Thirteen former Escanaba senior high school students have contacted the school for records of their credits, information concerning the credits they need to complete requirements for a high school diploma and recommendations for taking courses while they are in service. Requests have come to the local high school from three men in the South Pacific, one Seabee, five in the Navy now at sea, one in England, one who is attending midshipman's school at Northwestern, one who is at a Naval construction training center in Virginia, and one with the air forces training command in North Carolina. All formerly attended the high school, but none were graduated.

The USAFI has branch headquarters in Alaska, Hawaii, England, Egypt and Australia; and all men and women in the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard are eligible to enroll in the institute.

Credit is given those in uniform for basic training and for specialized training. High schools decide on the amount of credit to be given depending on the type of training and time spent on it. Service officers make arrangements for the men to take the needed courses as prescribed by high schools.

The four major divisions of the institute are institute correspondence courses, university extension correspondence courses, self-teaching courses, and off-duty classes.

Van Meer

Freak Thunder Storm
Van Meer—A thunder storm which played some freak tricks around the community occurred here on Sunday evening. Quite a number of parents turned out for the open house at the local school, Wednesday night, and at Mather high school, Munding, on Thursday evening.

A Baptismal service was held at Cowell lake on Sunday afternoon with Reverend Arthur Brower in charge.

MAN HAD BRICK IN HIS STOMACH FOR 10 YEARS

One man recently stated that for 10 years he felt like he had a brick in his stomach. This feeling was due to the lump of undigested food he always had inside of him. He was weak, worn out, headachy, swollen with gas and terribly constipated. Recently he started taking ERB-HELP and says the feeling like a brick in his stomach disappeared the second day. Bowels are regular now, gas and headaches are gone and he feels like a new man.

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Sold by all Drug Stores here in Escanaba.
